The appearance of our finished cabinetry comes from the qualities of wood itself. The select solid hardwood and hardwood veneers used by Tru-Wood® Cabinets vary in color from shades of white, red, black and even green. Mineral streaks are often present in the finest hardwoods where the wood has absorbed minerals from the soil during the years of growth. Grain patterns and apparent textures will vary from "even" to "relatively wild".

These natural variations will appear throughout your cabinetry. They will occur on adjacent cabinets, between pairs of doors and/or drawers on the same cabinet or even within the same panel. We call these characteristics to your attention because the effect of these variations in your entire room may be different from what you see now in viewing a small display or a finished sample. The variations are broad - but they are the beauty of natural wood.

The inks used to simulate the color of our doors as well as the photographs in this brochure may vary from the actual stains applied. They are only a small representation of the colors and wood variation that will be present in your kitchen or bath. It is recommended that you view a larger sample or display.
